The Unsung Heroes of the JNMT

Intelligent, thorough reviews of submitted manuscripts are the basis of the success of any scientific publication. The Journal of Nuclear Medicine Technology is fortunate to count among its manuscript reviewers some of the most knowledgeable practitioners of nuclear medicine. A tremendous amount of gratitude is due these individuals who have given their time so freely to support the Journal during the latter part of 1977 and all of 1978.

Many, many times I have been amazed by the astute observations made by these reviewers; they are truly a remarkable group!

Thank you again.
