
Letter from the Editor

Beginning with the January 1985 issue of the Journal of Nuclear Medicine (JNM), Newsline will be incorporated within the pages of each issue of the JNM. To better meet the needs of the membership of the Technologist Section, the Journal of Nuclear Medicine Technology (JNMT) will begin, with this issue, a reorganized news section to provide a variety of information for our readers. I have appointed Vincent Cherico, CNMT, as a Consulting Editor to serve as News Editor for this section of the JNMT. Vince also serves as the Associate Editor of "SNM Newsline" in the JNM. He is a Past-President of the Technologist Section and has been extremely active in the Publications Committee for several years. He serves as Administrative Technical Director at Rhode Island Hospital, Providence, RI, and has many years of experience in nuclear medicine. Vince will be responsible for coordinating news material which is of interest to our readers, and which impacts the practice of nuclear medicine technology. Also, the activities of the Technologist Section will be presented to make you aware of the efforts being put forth.

I would like to thank the many people who have devoted their time and talents to reviewing the manuscripts submitted for publication during this last year. Their expertise in various areas of nuclear medicine and devotion to their profession are primarily responsible for the quality of material which we publish. The responsibilities of reviews are twofold: to provide peer review for the scientific accuracy and relevance of material submitted for publication, and to provide objective assistance to authors in having material presented to provide quality information for the author and the Journal. These responsibilities are paramount in ensuring the scientific and educational quality of our Journal. Their opinions and support are the backbone of the JNMT. Many thanks to:
